OVERVIEW

Dr. Stanley J. Ward wants to see leaders reduce unnecessary conflict, avoid burnout, and create sustainable positive change - both at work and home. He enjoys working with young and mid-career leaders to realize and apply the truth of Marshall Goldsmith's famous observation: "What got you here won't get you there."

To do that, he works with leaders to define essential success metrics while also developing the relationships and thinking habits needed for their transition into greater leadership effectiveness.

His coaching program excels at helping leaders in transition as they adjust to new responsibilities, new contexts, and new challenges, so they can succeed both at work and home.

WHAT CLIENTS SAY

"Dr. Stan Ward has been an incredible resource to me as a consultant to work through significant business and personal transitions as well as strategic management and growth initiatives! He provides a unique combination of wisdom, experience, academic research, and a career of consulting and leadership development that work together to help me achieve effective results in both my work and family life."

- Joshua Ungerecht, CEO, JRW Investments

"I highly recommend Dr. Ward as a leadership coach. In just a single session, Stan was able to pinpoint the root cause of stressors that are impacting my personal life and provide an actionable tactic that fits in my extremely busy lifestyle."

- Dianna Assad, COO, Presidio Graduate School

"I enthusiastically recommend the services of Dr. Stan Ward. We have used Dr. Ward to transform our executives into impact leaders who in turn build top-performing teams who reach beyond their comfort zones to consistently deliver extraordinary results."

- James Mulato, President, Astronic Test Systems Inc.
